Arkansas PBS honors life of John Lewis in special programming including memorial footage

CONWAY, Ark. (Arkansas PBS) — Arkansas PBS will honor the life and work of former U.S. Rep. John Lewis, one of the key leaders of the civil rights movement, with special programming throughout the week. Lewis' life as an activist included lunch counter sit-ins, Freedom Rides, the 1963 March on Washington, and the 1965 Selma to Montgomery march that became known as "Bloody Sunday." All programs will be broadcast on ARPBS-1 and streamed live at myarkansaspbs.org/live.

"Barnes and … A Conversation With John Lewis," a two-part special produced here in Arkansas by Arkansas PBS in 2014, will air Thursday, July 23, at 7 and 7:30 p.m. In the first half-hour Lewis discusses his life and legacy during the civil rights movement. The second half-hour focuses on his book "March: Book One," co-written by Andrew Aydin and illustrated by Little Rock native Nate Powell.

"John Lewis: Get in the Way" will air with additional memorial footage Monday, July 27, at 8 p.m. The 2017 program follows the journey of the civil rights hero, congressman and human rights champion. At the Selma March, Lewis came face-to-face with club-wielding troopers and exemplified nonviolence.

On Wednesday, July 22, at 4:30 p.m., Arkansas PBS will broadcast "Arthur: Arthur Takes a Stand." In this 2018 episode, Arthur thinks Mrs. MacGrady is being treated unfairly, so – with some guidance from special guest Lewis – he decides the best way to take a stand is to take a seat.

Arkansas PBS is Arkansas's only statewide public media network, which enhances lives by providing lifelong learning opportunities for people from all walks of life. Arkansas PBS delivers daily, essential, local, award-winning productions and classic, trusted PBS programs aimed at sharing Arkansas and the world with viewers through multiple digital platforms, including on-demand services and YouTube TV, and the distinct channels Arkansas PBS, Arkansas PBS Create, Arkansas PBS KIDS, Arkansas PBS WORLD and Arkansas PBS AIRS on SAP. Members with Arkansas PBS Passport have extended on-demand access to a rich library of public television programming. Arkansas PBS depends on the generosity of Arkansans and the State of Arkansas to continue offering quality programming. Additional information is available at myarkansaspbs.org. Arkansas PBS is broadcast on KETS (Little Rock), KEMV (Mountain View), KETG (Arkadelphia), KAFT (Fayetteville), KTEJ (Jonesboro) and KETZ (El Dorado).
