High School Students to Compete in Personal Finance Challenge

First Security Bank to fund one-day competition led by Economics Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK—First Security Bank of Searcy will be the first-ever title sponsor of the Arkansas Personal Finance Challenge, hosted by Economics Arkansas, for high school students this spring. During a one-day competition on April 8 in Little Rock, student teams will be tasked with developing a financial plan for a fictitious family and presenting their recommendations to a panel of judges. The winner will receive cash prizes and advance to the National Personal Finance Challenge at the University of Nebraska in May.

"It is vitally important that today's business owners invest in the personal finance education of tomorrow's workforce," said Reynie Rutledge, president and CEO of First Security. "As a banker, I am so pleased to make this commitment to Economics Arkansas to host the 2020 Arkansas Personal Finance Challenge for the state's high school students. Learning early in life how to budget money and how to set financial goals helps every Arkansan build better futures for themselves and their families."

Economics Arkansas, a non-profit educational organization, has partnered with the Little Rock and Memphis, TN, branches of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis to host the challenge. Participation is free of charge, but teachers must register their teams by April

The Arkansas Personal Finance Challenge is part of the National Personal Finance Challenge hosted each year by the National Council on Economic Education, an educational and advocacy non-profit organization headquartered in New York, NY, to advance economic and personal finance literacy.

Economics Arkansas (through the Arkansas Council on Economic Education) is a private, non-profit, non-partisan, educational organization founded in 1962 by Dr. Arch Ford and led by Dr. Bessie B. Moore to promote economic literacy in Arkansas. Its mission is to equip PreK-12 schools with standards-based resources and professional development to teach economics, personal finance and the free-enterprise system using practical, innovative and inspiring methods so that Arkansas students may master an understanding of economics and personal finance and apply that knowledge for success in the free-enterprise system. It is affiliated with the National Council on Economic Education.
