Bulbs are an ever-increasing part of many spring gardens. To enjoy them in the spring, they must be planted in the fall. The term "bulb" is a general horticultural term which refers to all underground storage organs planted in the fall. To the botanist, daffodils and tulips have true "bulbs" like onions, crocus has "corms" and anemones have "rhizomes." They are available during the fall months from retail and mail order nurseries and mass merchants. Mid-September until late October is the best time for bulb planting in north and central Arkansas. In south Arkansas, bulbs can be planted during the latter half of October until mid-December. The soil temperature should be between 40 and 60 degrees before planting. Should circumstances prevent planting at the optimum time, plantings may be made as late as the end of December throughout the state. Buy bulbs that are firm, free of exterior blemishes and not shriveled. Bulbs are sold by grades based on size; hence, the larger bulbs are the most expensive and usually the best. Besides grade, the newness of the particular cultivar (variety) can have a big impact on price. Older cultivars are common in the marketplace and are usually much less expensive than the new introductions. Frequently, the older selections are "tried and true" and will outperform newer and more expensive introductions. Select firm, blemish-free, top size bulbs. Larger bulbs cost more but have bigger flowers. The adaptability of spring bulbs is one of the factors making them desirable in the flower garden. This adaptability permits their use in a wide variety of locations in the landscape. However, the one thing bulbs will not tolerate is poor drainage. If the proposed
