Plantation Agriculture Museum State Park to host Antique tractor and engine Show

Event to celebrate the role of tractors in agriculture

(SCOTT, Ark.) – The Plantation Agriculture Museum State Park is hosting the 32nd Annual Antique Tractor and Engine Show on Saturday, September 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free.

During the event, owners and operators of antique tractors and small engines will be on-site to share the story of these machines and their role in Arkansas's rich agricultural history. The event will also feature a kids' pedal tractor pull, lawn games, historic demonstrations, food trucks and other family-friendly activities. Visitors can view the park's collection of antique tractors, a 1919 Munger cotton gin and press, a restored seed warehouse listed on the National Register of Historic Places, and artifacts related to the history of agriculture in Arkansas.

Additionally, this will be the opening of the museum's fall exhibit, A Field of Plenty: Celebrating Arkansas Rice. Through stories and artifacts, this exhibit will allow visitors to explore the history of rice farming in Arkansas from its humble beginnings to global prominence. Visitors to the museum will be able to view A Field of Plenty from September 7 until January 26, 2025.

During these events, Plantation Agriculture Museum will also be collecting glass recycling at the museum as part of the Great Arkansas Cleanup. Glass bottles, jars, and containers are welcome. Information on how to recycle glass in central Arkansas throughout the year will also be available. Light bulbs, plate glass, and glass containers with lids that cannot be removed cannot be accepted at this event.
